

The American Constitution Society presents:

The 2007 ACS National Convention July 27-28 in Washington, DC

The 2007 ACS National Convention will take place the weekend of July 27-28 in Washington, DC.
Please save the date.

This year's Fifth National Convention will again feature exciting speakers, rigorous debate and discussion of important legal and policy issues and worthwhile networking opportunities. Further information about events, speakers, registration and student scholarship opportunities will be made available over the coming months. Panels will address topics including:

- congressional power,
- climate change,
- civil liberties,
- equal protection in the wake of the school desegregation cases,
- immigration policy,
- labor law,
- racial inequities in the criminal justice system,
- religion clause jurisprudence, and
- access to voting.

An application for CLE credit in New York is pending.
