

News Release

James J. Evangelista Elected President of the Tampa Bay Chapter of the American Board of Trial Advocates

Tampa, FL – James J. Evangelista, a shareholder with the law firm of Fowler White Boggs Banker, was elected president of The Tampa Bay Chapter of the American Board of Trial Advocates. ABOTA is an invitation only organization of the finest lawyers and judges in America. Made up of attorneys representing both plaintiffs and defendants in civil cases, ABOTA members have earned great distinction at trial. ABOTA was created in 1958 to defend and preserve the 7th Amendment right to trial by jury.

Mr. Evangelista is the Health Care Litigation Practice Chair and practices in the Health Care and General Trial Practice Groups of Fowler White Boggs Banker, where he concentrates his practice in all facets of civil litigation, particularly professional liability, medical malpractice, medical device and drug manufacturer, pharmaceutical, aviation, premises liability, products liability, transportation liability, and catastrophic loss.

Fowler White Boggs Banker is one of Florida's oldest and largest law firms with more than 230 attorneys in ten offices throughout Florida in Tampa, St. Petersburg, Ft. Myers, Tallahassee, Orlando, Naples, West Palm Beach, Bonita Springs, Jacksonville and Boca Raton. For more information, visit www.fowlerwhite.com.