FOWLER WHITE BOGGS ATTORNEYS FORM NEW FIRM

Tampa, FL – Rhea F. Law, Chair of the Board and CEO of the law firm Fowler White Boggs and Burton Wiand announced today that Mr. Wiand and several of his colleagues have decided to form their own securities and complex litigation boutique. Mr. Wiand will be joined by George Guerra and Peter King in the new firm to be called Wiand Guerra and King. The firm will be based in Tampa, Florida.

“The group that is departing Fowler White has worked together closely for many years. They made a collective decision that they wanted to try practicing as an independent firm. All of the departing attorneys have warm feelings for their experience with Fowler White and wish nothing but continued success for their former firm.” said Burton Wiand.

Rhea F. Law said, “The Wiand group has had a great association with Fowler White and has developed a business plan for a small firm with a practice emphasizing securities litigation.” Ms. Law said, “Wiand’s high profile receivership practice will be well served with independence from Fowler White.”

Fowler White Boggs is one of Florida’s oldest and largest law firms with more than 120 attorneys in five offices throughout Florida in Ft. Myers, Ft. Lauderdale, Jacksonville, Tallahassee and Tampa. For more information, visit www.fowlerwhite.com.
