WINSTON & STRAWN BOLSTERS ENERGY PRACTICE WITH ADDITION OF ROXANE MAYWALT TO WASHINGTON, D.C. OFFICE

WASHINGTON, D.C., — Winston & Strawn LLP announced today that Roxane E. Maywalt joined its energy, project development, and finance practice in Washington, D.C. as of counsel. Maywalt brings 20 years of experience handling a wide range of energy, service, rate, and regulatory issues, with a particular emphasis in the electric, hydroelectric, and natural gas industries. She joins Winston from National Grid USA Service Company, Inc.

Maywalt began her career as an attorney with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC) working in its electric and hydroelectric division and its oil and natural gas division. She moved on to private practice where she represented electric and natural gas utilities before FERC, related federal agencies, and state agencies.

“Roxane brings highly valued knowledge of the increasingly complicated federal energy regulations to our national practice and offers our clients experienced representation in all aspects of electricity and natural gas contracts, dispute resolutions, and settlements,” said Jerry Bloom chair of the firm’s energy, project development, and finance practice group.

Added Tom Mills, managing partner of Winston’s Washington, D.C. office: “Roxane’s experience in both the public and private sectors and before state and federal agencies will also be an asset to our regional clients and a great addition to our well-known energy practice.”

Maywalt received her J.D. from Syracuse University in 1991, and a B.S. from Cornell University in 1986.

Winston & Strawn LLP is an international commercial law firm with 15 offices in North America, Asia and Europe. More information about the firm is available at www.winston.com.
